Public Park Sunset Cliffs

DEVELOPMENT PROJECT
EXPLAINED TO COUNCILMEN
ON SPECIAL TOUR

City Manager Rhodes and four members of the council visited Sunset Cliffs early this week, when the subdivision project was fully explained to them by John P. Mills and his attorney, Archie Shreve. It is stated that no final decision was reached on the matter, but several members of the council expressed themselves tentatively as satisfied with the Mills proposition for the establishment of a public park at the most picturesque section of the cliffs. It was asserted that a contour road along the ocean would prove impracticable because of the sharp curves in the present shore line. An amicable adjustment of the entire matter is expected.

BRISK DEMAND FOR POINT LOMA PROPERTIES
CAUSES RAPID GROWTH

It is announced from the headquarters of the John P. Mills Organization, Inc., selling agents for the holding company, that improvement work in Sunset Cliffs will be reached in the not distant future, due to rapid disposal of tracts previously acquired and improved as fast as possible. Tracts of prior announcement where improvement work of re-subdivision remains to be completed include Point Loma Villas and a district bordering Catalina boulevard. Pantages Terrace and the new business reserve in the heart of the point were said to be practically sold out, but the organization still is occupied with disposal of the extensive Loma Vista property.

DOUBLE FEATURES FOR THE WEEK-END AND OTHER BIG BILLS

Owner-Manager Ray Ericsson is continuing his popular policy of giving a double program every Saturday at the Strand Theatre. For tonight Reginald Denny is the star in "Ill Show You the Town," with an added western feature, and on Sunday Mary Roberts Rinehart's riproaring comedy, "Seven Days," will make your sides ache with laughter. There will be an extra big special for the mid-week feature, and on Friday Jack Hoxey will be seen in "The White Outlaw" with his famous dog and horse.

Swim Stars Compete

FREE ADMISSION
TO CHAMPIONSHIP EVENTS
AT BIG BATHHOUSE

The Mission Beach plunge last Saturday night was the scene of the second of a series of three championship swimming meets awarded the bathhouse by the A. A. U. A large and enthusiastic crowd was present and thoroughly enjoyed each and every event on the spectacular program.

Arrangements are now being made for the third championship meet, which will be held Dec. 19, and, as in the preceding events, all the leading aquatic stars will compete for swimming honors. Admission to the bathhouse is free, and it is hoped that those who were unable to attend the previous swimming meets will avail themselves of the opportunity to witness the forthcoming event, as one does not have to be an expert swimmer in order to fully enjoy these aquatic programs.

GREAT POULTRY SHOW
PROMISES TO ECLIPSE
ALL FORMER EXHIBITS

Not since the Panama-Pacific exposition, at San Francisco in 1915, has there been better promise of a splendid exhibition of poultry than that to be expected at the great Ambassador poultry show scheduled for Dec. 8 to 13, at the magnificent Ambassador Hotel auditorium, in Los Angeles. More than a dozen poultry specialty clubs have advertised national, state or district meetings in connection with the show, including California Breeders of Rare and Fancy Fowl club, which in itsself promises a most interesting and educational exhibition of many of the rarer varieties.

The Ambassador poultry show is being sponsored by the Greater Southern California Poultry association, which was organized Jan. 10 of this year. Commercial poultrymen are showing much interest in the "Record of Performance" classes to be shown at the Ambassador for the first time on the Pacific coast. Entries are promised from fifteen different states as far distant as New York and Alabama.

Chris R. Holmes, one of the vice-presidents of the Greater Southern California Poultry association and proprietor of a model poultry farm in the millionaire Montecito district of Santa Barbara, has promised a wonderful exhibition of some of the rarest aviary birds in captivity. This exhibit, valued at $25,000, will be located in the center of the auditorium.

Those wishing to visit the show can take an "N" car from the down town district in Los Angeles. Free parking space is available for 1500 autos on the hotel grounds, which are easily accessible from all boulevards leading into Los Angeles.

Christmas Eve Carols

JOYOUS CUSTOM TO BE REVIVED THROUGHOUT
RESIDENTIAL SECTION

Christmas Caroling in every neighborhood throughout San Diego and surrounding communities is the object of the plans now being worked out by the Municipal Play and Recreation department in co-operation with Community Service and Community Music association. The hour set for the carolers to sing is from 6 to 7 p. m. on Christmas eve. Afterward it is anticipated that the various groups in each neighborhood will come together at the school to join in community singing of the carols around a tree of light set up out of doors.

The words and music to the carols may be procured either at the Community Service office, 645 A street, or at the Play and Recreation department office, Administration building, Balboa park. Those who will organize groups are asked to telephone, as soon as possible, to Community Service, at 3-2225, or to the Municipal Play and Recreation department, at Main 608.

Christmas caroling was launched by the Community Service several years ago. The object, according to leaders of the movement, is to emphasize the joyousness and spirit of giving through song, as contrasted with the spirit of getting, which tends to engross adults as well as children at Christmas time.

Mission Beach News Notes

Written for "The Beach News"
By Mrs. Harry K. Turner
Press Representative, Mission Beach Chamber of Commerce

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Reber have returned to their home at 838 Portsmouth court. Mr. Reber is a warrant officer of the Naval Air Station, and they have been in Philadelphia for the past two years.

Mrs. Alfred Johnstone, of Alamo, Lower California, visited Mrs. R. N. Ink on Tuesday of this week.

Mrs. Claude C. Chambers entertained with a delightful bridge party on Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 24, and bridge tea was served. Those present were: Mrs. John Coker, Mrs. Morris Bernardino, Mrs. Newton, Mrs. Al. Lambla, and the hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. John Coker spent Nov. 20 and 21 in Imperial valley, spending the night at the Barbara Worth hotel in El Centro. This is a splendid time of year to visit the valley, and Mr. and Mrs. Coker enjoyed the trip immensely.

Judge Claude C. and Mrs. Chambers spent several days during Thanksgiving with Mrs. Chambers' sister in Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Young and son spent Thanksgiving in Tecate, Mexico.

A tiny relation came to live with Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Stevenson, of 809 Sunset court, on Nov. 12. His name is Elbert Lawrence, and he is the son of the popular IXL grocer in the north end of Mission Beach.

Point Loma High School

FOOTBALL FACTS AND FANCIES

Next Wednesday is the day set for the football banquet. As Point Loma and Woodrow Wilson are the two newest schools, not much was expected of their football teams. Point Loma, however, came out higher than Woodrow Wilson, winning about half the games played. The first year's football team is always difficult to manage; therefore, Horace Stevens, captain, must be complimented upon his leadership. Immediately after school, Wednesday, the football team will have a practice game and from the game adjourn to the cafeteria. The faculty and members of the football team will be the only ones present at the banquet. Among other things, a new captain for 1926 will be elected. Some of the football men who will be present include Jones, Stevens (captain), Markel, Berkeley, Harrison, Burnham, O'Mara, Driscoll, Dyer, Losey, Ochoa, Roberts, Justice, Nelson, Bennett, Cline, Davis, Hughes, Howell, Tibbitts, Wells, and Schenkel.

OPENING ANNOUNCEMENT
"CONSTANCE BEAUTY SALON"
ON NEWPORT AVENUE

Special attention is called to the striking announcement of the Constance Beauty Salon, which will be opened at 5041 Newport avenue, Ocean Beach, on or about Monday, Dec. 14. Skilled workmen are busy transforming the interior of the building into very attractive and artistic quarters. The new beauty salon will be under the direct management of Leila G. Hait, with Constance Sturtz and Madge Rosenbaum as operators. All three are well and favorably known residents of Ocean Beach. The latest and best hairdressing equipment is being installed, including an electric "Sun-Aero" hair dryer, and the most modern permanent waving machine. Everything will be kept absolutely sanitary and popular prices will prevail. The Constance Beauty Salon starts with every augury of success.

BERMUDA AVENUE
OCEAN OUTFALL SYSTEM
FOR SEWERAGE

The city council last Monday gave rather unfavorable consideration to a petition protesting against the establishment of an ocean outfall at Bermuda avenue for sewerage in the Sunset Cliffs section of Ocean Beach. It was stated that some 598 lots are directly embraced in the proposition and opponents of the outfall system asserted that the cost would prove practically a confiscation of most of the property affected, while it was also claimed that the beach front would suffer pollution with the adoption of the sea outfall plan. City Manager Rhodes and the council acquiesced in the idea for a Bermuda avenue ocean outfall, but there are those who foretell a great hue and cry when the assessments are pro rated in the beach district.

PUEBLO PROPERTY
NEAR OCEAN BEACH
CLAIMED BY CITY

Advising the city to file briefs substantiating its claim to pueblo lands immediately north of the Point Loma golf club, Maj. H. A. French, army engineer for the Southern California district, has announced that the city's claim would receive full consideration. The lands in question were deeded at one time to the government by the city, and since the government has decided not to use them, several realty promoters have requested that the lands be put on the market for public auction.

Advice For Parents

PROTECTIVE LEAGUE
SAVES SCHOOL CHILDREN
FROM SERUM FEVER

Considerable publicity is being given in some sections of the state to a supposed increase in diphtheria, and the public is being urged to submit their children to serum treatment to prevent any possible spread of the disease, but the Public School Protective league has come forward with overwhelming proof and objection against such action.

There is no official report of an epidemic of diphtheria anywhere in the state, and broad-minded people are inclined to agree that so much publicity regarding disease, the blare of serum trumpeters, and the constant holding aloft of the banners of alarm, are not at all conducive to that state of mental poise which is so necessary to meet conditions as they arise in the natural course of events.

Parents are advised by the Public School Protective league that there is nothing in the law of California which requires them to have their children serumized to prevent disease.

GRAPES AND RICE

The grape crop of California for 1925 is estimated at approximately 70,000 cars, while the rice crop is estimated at a total of $10,000,000.

"Jerry Tarbot," as he is called, came out of the World war suffering from shell shock. He was ill for a long time, finally regained his health, but could not remember his name. Recently while under treatment by a mental specialist in Los Angeles, Tarbot said his father's name was Dubois and his mother's name was Northen; also that he was Peter Martin.

CALIFORNIA NEWS BRIEFS

American Legion posts of Sonoma county, in session in Petaluma, decided to recommend to Governor Richardson that the Sonoma home, until recently occupied by delinquent women, be turned over to the national department of the American Legion for the care of orphans of veterans. The home is located near Sonoma and the legion proposes to use it for a billet. Mrs. Shepard, national president of the American Legion Auxiliary, is actively engaged in trying to have Governor Richardson agree to the plan.

Scoring 936 points out of a possible total of 1,350, the Healdsburg, Sonoma county, high school apple judging team won in the apple judging contest held in Healdsburg, with four teams competing. Petaluma high school was second with 875 points; Ukiah, third; Geyersville, fourth, and Santa Rosa, fifth. The highest individual honors were won by Arthur Archer and Sterling Reynolds of Healdsburg, while David Squires, Ukiah, was third.

Internal revenue receipts in the first California collection district, which includes all the counties north of Kern, fell off 2 per cent from 1924, according to the annual report of Collector J. P. McLaughlin. The decrease was from $56,247,142.33 to $55,381,381.74. The repeal of some taxes and the reduction in the rate of others were responsible for the decrease, although the falling off was not as great as the tax reduction, showing that trade has improved.

The annual harvest festival, or week of donations in aid of the two orphanages maintained in Grass Valley, Nevada county, by the Sisters of Mercy, was started with Mrs. Darcy Ridge as secretary of the committee. Sub-committees will make collections in all of the outside communities, including Sierra county and portions of Yuba county. In addition to large stores of food supplies, several thousand dollars in cash is usually secured.

Tulare building permits for the year at the end of October reached a total of over $100,000 over the total of last year at this time. October showed a gain of $6,000 over the same month last year, total building for the month ending October 31 being $19,455. In addition to the actual building permits issued there has been well over $150,000 in new machinery and equipment installed in new local enterprises during the present year.

Plans are being prepared for a 3-story reinforced concrete and brick infirmary building for the College of the Pacific at Stockton, San Joaquin county. It will be erected on the campus. The architecture will be of the Gothic type. The exterior walls will be brick trimmed with terra cotta. The structure is a gift of Mrs. Harriet R. Jackson and will cost about $30,000.

Some automobile thieves have consciences. This is the conclusion of W. T. Williamson, Lodi, San Joaquin county, business man, when he received a letter from a stranger enclosing $15 to cover the cost of a trip from Lodi to King City, where Williamson recovered his stolen machine. The writer explained that he had borrowed the car for the journey.

For the second time within a few weeks high school students and faculty of Santa Rosa have been aroused over a robbery committed at the school. Recently it was discovered that $29 had been stolen from the desk of a member of the faculty. A short time before the safe in the office of the executive was robbed of $375.

J. C. Bruce of Sacramento, famous lion hunter of the state fish and game commission, ended his 1925 hunting expedition with a record of killing ten of the beasts during the summer months. Bruce bagged his game in Lake, Mendocino and Glenn counties. He will start on his next hunting expedition early in 1926.

At a recent meeting of the California Avocado Growers' exchange C. V. Newman of Tustin, Orange county, was elected president. Offices and storage space has been enlarged at the exchange packing house in Los Angeles. A recent survey indicates that the 1926 crop will be twice the size of that of 1925.

Bids were opened for the construction of a 2-story brick and concrete school building for the Modesto junior college. It will be erected at Modesto, Stanislaus county. This is the second unit of the present building, which was completed some time ago. The second unit will cost about $50,000.

The second annual poultry, pigeon and dog show was held in Visalia, Tulare county, October 15 to 17. There were over 700 entries and $1,500 was offered in cash awards, besides seventy-seven cups and trophies. It was staged under the auspices of the Visalia Chamber of Commerce.

Les Smith of Calipatria, one of the largest barley growers in Imperial valley, expects to put in about 1,000 acres to that grain. He has 300 acres seeded to new alfalfa and barley and 130 acres to barley, and is preparing an additional 600 acres for barley.

A final report on the financial returns of the Marin county fair and harvest festival, recently held at Novato, was submitted by the fair committee at a mass meeting held in the Novato community house. The report showed that $539.86 had been cleared.

The first shipment of crushed rock, 400 yards, was shipped recently from the Hein Construction company's crusher, south of Petaluma, Sonoma county, to San Rafael, where it will be used on the highway between San Rafael and the Richmond ferry. This is the first shipment of crushed rock to be sent out of this city since the old crusher closed in 1914.

Keen competition in livestock judging was very apparent at the state championship contest, held at the university farm at Davis, Yolo county, recently. High schools representing all sections of the state competed for the final honors. The ten teams represented the selections from district and semi-final contests, conducted in all of the county, district and state fairs; the winner in each being eligible to compete at the final contest. The Lodi Union High school team won the contest and was awarded the Ward trophy and the Southern Pacific company prize of $250 in gold.

No more RHEUMATISM

IT'S GONE! That awful agony! Rheumatism can't stand the rich, red blood that S. S. S. helps Nature build.

But rheumatism will bring pain and misery to your joints and muscles just as long as you are without plenty of rich, red blood in your system.

It's the red-blood-cells that S. S. S. helps Nature build that drive out of your system the impurities that cause rheumatism. And until you do build up your blood to where it is pure and rich and red, you simply can't get rid of rheumatism.

And S. S. S. is the thing. Red blood conquers rheumatism. Everybody knows that.

S. S. S. means millions of red-blood-cells—means health all over. No more rheumatism. Nights of rest—days of joy, filled with the happiness of accomplishment — made possible by a body brimful of red blooded life, energy and vitality.

Straightline, New Condenser Scheme

Principle Now Is Regarded as Real Step Forward, Writer Says.

Not so very long ago everybody had the "low-loss" craze and nowadays everything, as far as variable condensers are concerned, must be "straightline." Many people decided that "low loss"—to put it colloquially—was the bunk, but it is generally agreed that the "straightline" principle now incorporated in many well known makes of condensers, is a real step forward. Writing in the Radio Broadcast magazine, Prof. J. H. Morecroft, past president of the Institute of Radio Engineers, goes thoroughly into the subject and explains just why the straightline-frequency condenser is a real improvement on any other type.

Difference in Loss.

"With the increase in the use of the term frequency, rather than wavelength, in radio broadcasting ideas and practice, the straightline-frequency condenser has appeared on the market and there seems to be considerable misunderstanding as to what and why it is," writes Professor Morecroft.

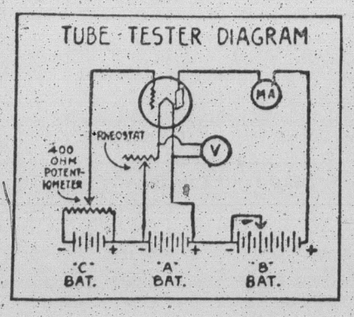
"It is not long since comment was made on the 'low-loss' condenser, a term which was invented by some astute radio business man to increase his sales. As many people pointed out at that time, some condensers do actually have lower electrical losses than others, due to better materials used for plates and insulation, but the difference is so slight that any one of a dozen reputable condensers would show up equally well when connected in a receiving set. The difference in loss of various standard condensers is so slight that accurate laboratory measurements are required to show it.

Advance in Radio Art.

"Not so, however, with the straightline-frequency condenser; the use of such a condenser in radio sets is a real advance in the radio art. The assignment of various channels to different broadcasting stations is made because each station requires a definite number of cycles for its own use. It may be said that no station should be assigned a frequency within ten kilocycles of another located sufficiently close to interfere with the one in question. Thus if there were ten stations in one district they would naturally be assigned channels equally spaced in frequencies, say ten kilocycles apart, and if the set being used is equipped with straightline-frequency condensers these stations will be found at equally spaced points on the tuning dials. With ordinary condensers, of course, this is by no means possible, for only one or two stations are found at the higher points of the scale, while at the lower end of the scale the different stations come in at points so close together that it is difficult to set accurately for them. These new condensers, however, show one station at 5, another at 10, another at 15, etc., all the way up the scale and their use naturally makes a set considerably easier to manipulate."

Tube Tester Is Made of Scrap Instruments

If you have a wavemeter in which a milliammeter is employed or if you wish to go to a little expense to get one, it is a comparatively simple matter to make a tube tester out of a few scrap instruments that can be found around almost any laboratory. Such a device is very valuable to anyone who desires to do precision work and does not wish to spend a lot of time trying to fix a set only to find that a tube was bad.



The parts used are 201-A socket, rheostat, 400-ohm potentiometer, baseboard, wire and binding posts. In addition to this is required an 0 to 5-milliammeter which may be one that you are using for some other purpose or specially bought.

The layout of the parts is left to the builder. I might suggest that you place the meters face up. It can be wired with regular bus wire.

To operate connect up the batteries as designated and insert tube in socket. A reading will be shown on the milliammeter. When the potentiometer is thrown to one side you will get the minimum reading and to the other you will get the maximum.—Philadelphia Record.

Care in Placing Tubes

When you place the tubes in the sockets, be careful how you handle them. Many tubes have been injured by rough usage. The tubes will not stand the rough treatment given them by many fans. The tips are sometimes broken and thus make poor contacts. Do not take the tubes out of the sockets any more than is absolutely necessary.

Community Building

Treatment of Color of House Important

It is rare that a house should present more than two colors, and there should be nothing facetious or faddish about their choice.

A house is lived in too long, and under too many conditions of weather and season, to say nothing of other circumstances, to be extreme in any way. It need not be so neutral as to forego all individuality, but it should on the whole be rather conservative than err on the other side.

The exterior should be neutral enough to serve as a peaceful transition between the surroundings and the interior furnishings and to sit harmoniously and quiet in its own grounds.

If the house is finished with smooth siding, such as wide boards or clapboards, it takes paint, but if it is covered with rough sawed siding, such as shingles or rough boards, stain should be used.

Stain is a thin material and will not successfully tint smooth woodwork, but it does penetrate deeply into the surface of rough wood. These are technically known as shingle stains although they may be applied just as well to any wood or rough surface whether shingles or boards.

Paint should be used on smooth siding and trim where it will produce a film of weather resisting material on the outside of the boards, penetrating slightly into the wood fiber.

Planning Adopted by Kansas City Praised

Probably the most successful work of city planning, as well as one of the most extensive and beautiful residential communities in the United States, in the Country club district in Kansas City. The story of this remarkable achievement of its originator, J. C. Nichols, has often been told—among other places, in this magazine. But it deserves an occasional remembrance, says World's Work.

Mr. Nichols has demonstrated that beauty and good taste can be made to pay for he has been consistently successful over a period of 15 years. Tis community is growing in population at the rate of 2,500 a year. Automobile parking spaces that do not look ragged, accommodations for the unloading of motor trucks at retail stores without having the trucks harass traffic or be in sight at all while standing still, gasoline stations that are not ugly or loud—these, and a dozen other things that ordinarily contrive to spoil the most desirable neighborhood, have been brought under the control of art and robbed of their power to destroy the beauty of the scene.

Explaining Increase in Individual Homes

The average American man with a family is either living in a home of his own, or is looking forward to the time when he can do so. A rented house or a city apartment in most cases provides a temporary home only until such time as the head of the house can afford the privilege of firing his own furnace, mowing his own lawn and patching his own back-door steps.

This explains the constant increase in individual homes. Nobody needs to read up on building statistics to learn that there is a constant increase in sturdy, well-built houses. Go into any large city and ride around the fringe and one will find the landscape cluttered with partly completed houses. A little further out will be found subdivisions waiting for the building wave which will soon engulf them.

Luminous House Numbers

New innovations or adaptations to new uses of existing ones are without end in the building industry. An interesting application of luminous material to house numbers is one of the latest additions to the home owner's convenience. This is a number deeply embossed in an aluminum plaque 2¼ by 3¼ inches, the upper surface being coated with black enamel and baked, the lower surface being given a scratchbrush finish. Then the center portion is coated with a good quality of "Undark" radium-luminous material. This is then inclosed in an aluminum frame with clear glass.

To Beautify Highway

In order to beautify and shade the main highways of the province of Quebec that are without trees, the provincial government authorities are planting 300,000 trees this year. In addition to beautifying the highways and providing shade in the summer months, the trees will help to preserve the roads by protecting them, to some extent, from the elements.

Facilities for Pleasure

More and more, as wealth increases and leisure widens, superior facilities for pleasure are an asset of immense value to cities, states and even entire countries. As Florida and California capitalize their winter sunshine and warmth so Canada, New England and the Rocky mountain states turn their summer coolness into mints for coining gold. Places that possess real advantages for good times are unwise if they do not make the most of them

THE EARLY BIRDS

The Early Birds, with Leonard Homboe, president; Ernest Frisius, vice-president, and Cedric Poland, treasurer; will meet Friday, Dec. 4, at 7:30 in the morning. The official name of the Early Birds is the Cartoonists' club, with Mr. Holt, faculty advisor. The club's aims are to help its school by supplying cuts for the school paper, posters for the bulletin board, and drawings for whoever wishes them.

ARTS AND CRAFTS

The Arts and Crafts club has the proper Christmas spirit, for, under the leadership of Miss Gale, drawing teacher, the members are selling Christmas cards that are really gems. The cards are only 10c each, are hand-made, and show the work of Point Loma students. Parents of Point Loma students are cordially used to buy the school some article price of 10c, as the money will be gused to buy the school some article that is needed. Samples can be seen at Miss Gale's room, No. 6, or at the office.

INDEPENDENCE OF THE FINANCIAL KIND

By WILLIAM E. KNOX
President, American Bankers Association.

The principle upon which America was founded was Independence. The primary duty of the pioneers of this country was to interpret independence in its political sense, but independence today has another special significance in its financial sense. The ability to apply the primary principles of personal economics, to use intelligently that common thing we call "a pay check," has as much to do with individual independence as any other force in life.

William E. Knox

The greatest problem of independence of the average man or woman is how to get out of what they earn a good living and a reasonable degree of financial comforts in old age. We cannot maintain a high standard of national life without an intelligent management of the financial matters that constantly confront the average individual and family. In the accumulation of capital in the hands of the masses lies the hope of the true independence of a nation's people. The chief concern of wage earners is to get a reasonable degree of financial independence out of what they actually earn.

This question of how to attain personal financial independence has not been worked out on the principle of individual responsibility. The most important social needs today are a course of instruction in public education to give young people a practical notion of how to start life on a sound economic basis; and, secondly, a broad co-operative plan in American industry whereby men and women shall be helped to work out a personal financial program that will guide them toward a definite goal of financial independence. There ought to be a way for a man, for every dollar put aside each week now, to get back four or five dollars a week forty or fifty years later, regardless of where he works.

The present policy in American industry of helping employees is based on the assumption that they will ultimately become dependent. Old age pensions and other forms of charitable compensation are to be commended in lieu of a practical alternative, but in principle they are wrong and contrary to the purposes of democracy. What we want is an organized plan that will direct working people toward independence. No system can claim complete success that does not contemplate the financial independence of every employee, according to his ability to earn. It can be shown that American employees, with reasonable prudence on their own part, can reach a fair degree of independence while they are still working.

There must be injected into our industrial policy an additional economic element of mutual benefit and permanent value to both labor and capital, concerned not alone with the amount of wages and profits that are earned but with how these earnings shall be used. I am arguing for an industrial savings policy based upon the principle of independence. I am arguing for a new basis of co-operation in industry, for the elimination of poverty, and for a practical demonstration of economic democracy.

When public education teaches school students how to manage their personal affairs intelligently, and when the heads of firms make it a requirement that every young man and young woman who accepts a position shall be working toward a definite goal in saving money, then we will attack economic illiteracy at the source and begin to save men from the tragedy of financial dependency.

First-Footing Ancient Scottish New Year Habit

First-footing is an ancient custom which still exists in Scotland. Late in the evening of Hogomany, December 31, in each year, thousands of the common people assemble in the vicinity of the Edinburgh Tron church to ascertain on good evidence when the new year commences. When the clock is about to strike 12 they cheer so loudly that the strokes are not heard. Instantly that it has finished, they depart for the purpose of first-footing—that is, each one tries to be the first person that year to cross the threshold of his friend's house and wish him the compliments of the season. It is considered bad luck to go into a house empty-handed, and good luck is supposed to attend the resident whose "first foot" is dark-complexioned and whose name begins with straight instead of curved and curly letters.

COMMUNITY SPIRIT

There is no better evidence of a commendable community spirit than that of loyalty to a town in which a person lives. If a town is worth living in, it is worth defending and supporting in its efforts to advance with the rest of the world.

Costs Can Be Regulated

"I have discovered," says one farm bookkeeper, "that the kind of man you have on a job, as well as the particular team, often makes quite a variation in the cost of performing certain tasks. I have learned from the pages of my book that if I could have increased the yield of my wheat field by two bushels and my corn by five bushels I would have realized a substantial profit from them."

While the farmers may not be able to fix prices on their products, they do have a voice in determining the costs of production. To reduce this cost they must first know what the costs are.

The number of farmers who are keeping books on their business has increased remarkably in recent years, but the number of businesslike farmers is woefully small when listed alongside the sum total of the farmers in the country.

Inventory Is Indispensable

The basis of any system of farm accounting is the annual property list or inventory. It is the starting point of the farm records. One must take into consideration decreases or increases in the value of all property owned to gauge the progress of the business. Lacking facts as to the value of his property, no business man can form an accurate estimate of how he stands financially. Increased cash may be due to property which was sold, or increased debts may be due to improvements made. If a farmer is falling behind, the inventory will emphasize this fact. Often when a man is discouraged and thinks he is making no progress, his inventories will tell him that he is better off than he thought.

At the end of each year a financial statement is drawn off. This is the farmer's rating and no farmer with a good financial statement need fear walking into a bank and asking for a loan.

DAVID S. LOCKWOOD RECEIVES HIGH HONOR AS NAVY APPRENTICE

Just ten weeks ago David S. Lockwood, the well and favorably known son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Lockwood, of 4896 Long Branch avenue, enlisted as an apprentice in the navy at the San Diego training station and has already attained high honors. The naval drill officer, Lieut.-Com. R. A. Hall, has notified young Lockwood of his appointment as chief petty officer of his company, after a strong competition for the rating. When it is considered that men are chosen as apprentice chief petty officers because of their neat personal appearance, their ability to profit by instruction, and the quality of leadership especially exhibited, the high honor awarded to Mr. Lockwood in such a brief period is exceptionally creditable and a remarkably bright future is predicted for him by his hosts of friends. Here's good luck, Dave. Keep a-climbing up the navy ladder!

REV. WILLIAM I. NEWMAN ORDAINED AS PASTOR AT CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

In the presence of visiting clergy and laity from the Congregational church of San Diego and vicinity, Rev. William I. Newman was ordained and installed as pastor of the Union Congregational church at Ocean Beach on Tuesday, Dec. 1, at 2:30 p. m. The council meeting was followed by a dinner for the visiting pastors and an evening service at 7:30 o'clock. Rev. L. A. Wilson, of Mission Hills Congregational church, preached the ordination sermon. It is recorded that Candidate Newman presented a simple, direct and concise paper before the council, and responded to the hour of questioning with frankness. He is a graduate of the Pacific School of Religion in Berkeley, and came from Los Angeles to take charge of the Ocean Beach church a few months ago.

MUSICAL PROGRAM BY O. B. WOMEN'S CLUB NEXT MONDAY NIGHT

The Spinnet Chorus will present the major portion of a musical program next Monday evening, Dec. 7, given under the auspices of the Ocean Beach Women's club of the Baptist church. The program will be entirely free and all residents of the Beach and their friends are cordially invited to attend. The Spinnet Chorus, a neighborhood group of women living on the same block in San Diego, has become well known in the past year and a half. They have been asked and have consented to come to Ocean Beach, not only for the pleasure they can give by their singing, but because what they have done is quite possible for other groups to do. There will be a very brief business meeting of the club promptly at 8 o'clock, and the musical program will follow immediately.

TIMELY SUGGESTION BY STRAND RADIO CO. FOR THE HOLIDAYS

This is the season when family councils are held for the discussion and selection of Christmas gifts and on such matters the Strand Radio company offers a very agreeable suggestion. The point is emphasized of "taking a family vote for a Radio." That's something to please 'em all, from the youngest to the oldest member of the home circle. And it's a mighty fine way to entertain guests, too. Just get Bowker & Deuel of the Strand Radio company to explain their easy plan of payments, along with their free demonstrations of "real radios and absolute satisfaction" in the way of service. And the sooner the better for the whole family. Make it a radio Christmas!

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. WALKER

A CLEAR TRACK

THE white lights are blazing encouragingly along your track, young man and woman, and the world is waiting open-armed to receive you.

There is work to do for yourself and your country.

The shops and factories are calling you. The professions are opening places in their ranks for your acceptance.

The smiling acres in pleasant valleys and on magnificent, health-giving hills are stretching out their plump, brown arms to embrace you in a friendly welcome.

From everywhere comes the call to honor and prosperity.

The old and worn are falling by the wayside; the young and vigorous must move up and take their places, full of promise and overflowing with riches.

Mount your steed and whip him up. Do not be afraid.

Nothing is impossible if you will accept responsibility intelligently and give the best that is in you.

There are greater fortunes hidden in the future, waiting for development than are visible in the present, and the track is clear along the entire way.

Keep going in all sorts of weather. Keep away from your own ugly moods, angry quips and storms of passion.

Carry with you all the cheer, willingness and sunshine that you can.

Stop frequently at the wayside stations and take on a new supply, for these are the things which will make it possible for you to write your name in later years side by side with the illustrious leaders who are now showing you the way.

When their day is over, if you have proved yourself capable and true, you will take their places and help other as they are now helping you.

Every morning when the sun comes up it shines upon the smiling face of a new captain, who has passed safely through the trying darkness of night and proved his worthiness to command.

Some morning the sun may shine on you!

Let that thought give you encouragement, greater incentive to keep going straight ahead on a clear track where the white lights are flashing you a friendly welcome at every milestone.

Pack your heart full of love; pack it full of accomplishment; pack it full of faith, courage and noble ambition, then ride on assured that you will reach the coveted goal.

THIS KEEPS US TWENTY

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

A SHADOW will fall
Across us all,
There never yet was a year all summer,
And men will win
To an empty inn
Where never a light will greet the comer.
But the cloud will pass
And we'll find the grass,
And the spring will come with the buds returning,
And we'll trudge along
When the inn goes wrong
Till we come to a house where the lights are burning.

The wind will blow
From the north, you know,
And the snow will drift, and the ice will gather,
But the wind will swing
To the south and bring
Us clearer heavens and better weather
Why, all we need
Is to wait, indeed.
And to smile a little and pray a plenty.
The days we scold
Are what makes us old,
And the days we hope are what keep us twenty!

IT WAS IN GOLD TIME

By ROBERTA LITTLEHALE

(© by Short Story Pub. Co.)

HE WAS straight, and grizzled, and keen of eye. He had worked, and fought, and gambled his way through the lawlessness and passion of the state's early life into the decency and uprightness of a successful contractor.

His name was Bill Bowen.

As a civil engineer, I came more or less in contact with him, and rejoiced in the largeness of his mental mold, as well as in the business sense of security he let me enjoy.

One summer's night we took a drive to a distant town on the San Joaquin river. We were to look at stone for bridge building, and the blistering heat of the day made us willing to lose our sleep for the more comfortable traveling by starlight.

The horses jogged lazily through the coarse, thick dust on the river's levee, and the insects from the grain fields and the frogs from the sloughs had things wholly to themselves until Bill suddenly interrupted.

"Mrs. Chase is pretty enough yet to understand why she sent two fellows to the devil, isn't she?"

"What are you talking about?" I answered.

"Oh," said Bill, pulling himself up, "I forgot you didn't struggle with the rest of us through those groggy days."

I knew Bill well enough to let him relapse just so many minutes; then I said: "Judge Chase's wife is lovelier at sixty than most girls at sixteen, but I hadn't an idea she figured so romantically in the early days as to send anybody overboard."

"H'm," replied Bill reflectively.

The horses traveled on without attention, and I waited in patience.

"You know what it was like," he began at last. "Men with guns from all over the Union and gold the heaven we sweated for. Prayers, and court, and the gambling tables all running under one roof, and nary a woman's face showing up in the mass to give us courage. To be sure, there were vixenish ribs o' Satan who robbed, and killed, with the worst of us; but until '51 we'd never the woman for reverence. Then, by degrees, the lawyers and a stray merchant or two aired their families, but things wasn't dizzy till pretty Grance Blanchard got out with her father.

"Understand, she carried herself as she'd ought to; but, understand, there was men among us as was born and bred to live with blood. The mass of us had to take out our satisfaction in looking at her; but for two the favor in old Blanchard's eyes was easy reading, and it wasn't long seeing the course the straw took.

"Ned Emory was a long, lean, blond fellow, with a blamed fine face and a way that made friends of the toughest. They said he looked a swell when he called at the Blanchards', but I never saw him but like the rest of us—red-shirted and overalled, and an angle to his pistols that made him a joy.

"George Stokes—'Shorty,' we called him—was a man with an answer that ripped like a knife and a head that made success of everything, because it could work crooked as well as straight. He'd been on the bench, but he'd located a vein at Mariposa, and was overseeing up there in '52. Naturally, he lost opportunities, not being right on the spot, and the danger began.

"The Blanchard house was swelled larger than most of the cabins, and had two long windows that opened onto a porch. Things might never have been so bad but for those two lidless eyes in front.

"One fatal night Shorty Stokes rode into the settlement—but I'm getting ahead of affairs."

Bill tossed his cigar into the tules, and hurried the horses into effort as the interest of his reminiscence swept him on.

"The girl carried herself after the fashion of high steppers, and neither fellow could swear where he stood. It was laughter and spirit for both of them, they said, and nip and tuck for the yielding. The pace was the sort that exhausts men, and Shorty's brain for lawyering cooked up a scheme for his rescue. He was for their going together some night before her, and, after a formal marriage proposal, each argue his claim and fitness for ten minutes by the clock, their honor at stake to stand by her decision.

"It got about afterwards that Emery wouldn't consent till he saw the devil to pay in Shorty's earnestness, and they swore with their fists in each other's to carry the thing through to the finish. The date and hour were arranged for the following Sunday night at eight.

"When the evening came the clock had already struck eight when Stokes reached the Blanchard house.

"The lights from the room fell over the porch, and from the shadow of the steps he saw the something that in all the world he couldn't bear to see—Emory crossing the room to take Grace Blanchard in his arms; Emory with passion paling his face and Grace Blanchard in the beauty of a disturbing humility.

"He cursed as he watched them cling to each other, and he cursed his way back to his Mariposa mining.

"The next day he turned up again in the settlement, and, after a losing fling at the tables, he started to find Emory.

"After a little ineffectual riding, he leaped from the back of his vicious-eyed piebald at the corner and stood close to the stirrup with his hand on his hip. Someone who noticed him said his face had the steely intensity of a razor edge.

"Then out of the crowd, unconscious, with the music of love in his heart, swung Ned Emory. His hat was pushed back on his fair hair, and he was whistling the overflow out of his veins.

"In one instant a bullet rang through the air, followed by another. Emory fell in his own blood, and a horseman was riding off wildly and safe through the shower of bullets that rained around him. Every man with a cayuse tore in pursuit, but they only brought back eight half-dead horses. Stokes had staked relay beasts at different points along the road, and was then safe in the chaparral canyons toward the north.

"The gambling dens choked up with the crowds; gold dust was heaped on gold dust for the reward of the cowardly hound. Murders weren't rare then, but there was only one Ned Emory, remember.

"Four of us wouldn't drop the search. We let the blood-money men get out of the way, and then we worked as we'd toil for only our own.

"There was scarcely no scent to follow, for Stokes had bribed the greasers who furnished his horses; but we forced our way along on nothing. Day and night we rode with our eyes open, sometimes bullying and sometimes begging. It began to seem hopeless. The days were running into summer again.

"One afternoon, toward twilight, we rested on the crest of a mountain where the path took a sudden turn away from a two-hundred-foot precipice.

"We were torn with the snapping branches of the greasewood, and full of extremest dirt and disgust. Suddenly we heard the rustle of a step on the fallen leaves. Under a live oak, not thirty yards away, on the very edge of the cliff, stood Shorty Stokes. He had not heard us, and he stood looking at the moon which hung a sickle in the hot sky. The evening star was showing.

"The four of us were like stones. He could have got to Guinea before motion 'd have come to us. Then, simultaneously with our steps forward, he turned and looked into our faces.

"It was a moment to test the nerve of any man. He stood it as we were used to seeing him face all things.

"'I suppose I'm the man you're after,' he said.

"He said it with the dignity of a parson.

"In a second he had thrown down his pistols. He unsheathed his knives and dropped them to the ground.

"'Take me,' he said.

Four of us looked into the unflinching clearness of his eyes. As we hesitated, he spoke again.

"'Listen. It is not in excuse that I speak, nor in weakening. It is to tell you that those among you who are men will follow my steps under like circumstances.

"'Emory gave me his hand and his oath, in the manner of his frankness, to stand by an arranged agreement.

"'We were to meet at eight o'clock on that Sunday night. A—a beautifully good woman was to decide on our argument which man she would marry. In riding to meet my engagement I happened on an accident. Within half a mile of the settlement, close onto time, my piebald went back on his haunches and the groan of a man came up from the roadside. I found an overloaded miner, hurt in the leg, and the hope in my own heart aroused my sympathy. I mounted the man on my beast and headed him back toward camp.

"'Walk as I never walked, I reached the meeting place three minutes late. Ah—God—out in the darkness I saw Emory taking advantage of the delay.

"'None of you is so much a cur as to let life run in a man who, under his honor, couldn't yield a rival three minutes' grace.

"'But, with the camp against me and Emory the friend of the sorriest, I couldn't face the music when the justice was done.

"'It is not mercy I ask. It is life hereafter. Come.'

"With a common impulse we started forward, only to halt in a frozen horror as Stoke's broncho threw up his head in alarm to watch with us the backward somersaulting of his master's body over the precipice.

"Though there was but one verdict, even Chase said as we rode down over the mountain that night, 'Emory might have given Shorty a few minutes' grace.'"

Points of View

The golfer had lost his ball at a critical stage of the game. Remembering the rule, "Lost ball, lost hole," he and his caddie were searching feverishly for it.

When they were about to give up the hunt a tall and angular spinster bobbed up from the undergrowth.

"I think it's disgraceful that you are allowed to drive those horrid balls about!" she said, indignantly. "Why, one came over a few minutes ago, and it's absolutely ruining my dog's teeth!"

Use of Stimulants Large

The Gorgas Memorial institute, in studying the ailments of the American people, has compiled statistics to show that the people of the United States use 1,250,000,000 pounds of tea; 8,000,000,000 cigars and 50,000,000,000 ready-made cigarettes annually. The average daily dose of stimulants or narcotics taken is 306 grains of alcohol, 6 grains of nicotine, 6 grains of caffein and 1½ grains of opium.

Among the NOTABLES

FRANCIS SCOTT KEY

FRANCIS SCOTT KEY, born August 9, 1780, made himself immortal by writing the "Star Spangled Banner."

It happened that, in the War of 1812, towards its close in '14, the British invaded Washington. Some friends of Key's, who lived on a plantation nearby, were being held as prisoners and Key obtained the permission of President Madison to secure their release. With another man who had charge of the release and exchange of prisoners, he went out to the plantation and was courteously received by the British. They agreed to let the owners go, but said the entire party would have to stay over during an attack on Baltimore. Consequently, they were detained on board the frigate Surprise, part of the fleet firing on Fort McHenry.

The battle raged during the night, a puny enough fight, as battles go nowadays, but was watched with anxiety by the Americans. From his place on the deck, Key could see the American flag flying in the glare of the guns. Then there was a lull, and only darkness and smoke, and he lost sight of it, and had to await the first rays of dawn to see whether the Stars and Stripes still floated. When he saw it again, in the first faint light, he was so overflowing with relief and exultation that he wrote the first part of his immortal poem on the back of an envelope. It was printed and sung by a Baltimore actor, that very day, they say, and swept through the country as the greatest song of the time.

Key was a lawyer, though he did publish a book of poems with this song included. He died in Baltimore in 1843, and since then several monuments have been erected—one in Frederick county where he was born.

IS IT BRIGGS?

BRIGGS is a more usual name than Bridge or Bridges, yet they both have the same meaning, and Briggs is the dialect variation of Bridge. Rigg is in the same way a form of Ridge, yet Rigg or Riggs is rather more usual than Ridge or Ridges.

In England the name is renowned as having belonged to Henry Briggs, a contemporary of Shakespeare and of the greatest mathematicians of his day.

There have been several distinguished members of the Briggs family here. One was George N. Briggs, one fine governor of Massachusetts and congressman. And another was Charles Augustus Briggs, an American theologian.

FERRIS—This is said to have been derived from a French nickname from Frederick.

MASON—Sometimes this is an occupative name but probably oftener it is derived from Matthew, having the significance of son of Matthew.

CATT—This is undoubtedly derived from the first name Catherine. It may have been that the first of the name took his name from his mother—and illegitimacy was surely not always the reason for this. Again it is highly probable that such first names were taken in honor of some saint or church festival. Thus a man born on St. Catherine's day might have been given this name to distinguish him from his associates.

It is better laughing than crying,
However the world go by!
Though the laughing be only lying,
It is better laughing than crying;
So laugh—it is well worth trying—
Though a teardrop burn in the eye!
It is better laughing than crying,
However the world go by!

FOR THE FAMILY TABLE

FEEDING the family is a very important business and one which every mother will do well to study. Simple food well prepared is much more wholesome for all ages than the rich foods and hearty meats so often considered necessary.

Panned Chicken.

Separate a chicken into pieces at the joints; set into a buttered baking pan, adding a bit of butter to each piece; pour in a cupful of boiling water or veal broth, add salt, cover closely and set to cook in a hot oven; let cook an hour and a half; baste the chicken once or twice and turn over the pieces when half-cooked. When done remove the chicken to a platter, surround with savory rice and serve with Sauce for Panned Chicken.

Melt three tablespoonfuls of butter; in it cook three tablespoonfuls of flour and a scant half-teaspoonful of salt and a few dashes of pepper; when bubbling hot stir in three-fourths of a cupful of cream and the broth from the pan which should make a cupful or more. When boiling, strain into a bowl.

Raisin Pie.

Grate the rind and add the juice of two lemons and one orange, add one cupful of light brown sugar, two cupfuls of seeded raisins, one cupful of coarsely chopped walnuts, one and one-fourth cupfuls of water and bring to the boiling point; add four tablespoonfuls of flour blended with two of butter. Cook until the mixture is smooth, pour into a well-lined pastry plate, cover with a crust and bake for thirty minutes in a moderately hot oven until delicately browned.

For a family with a member or two who cannot eat sauerkraut, those who do must deny themselves a wholesome, tasty dish. Isn't it too bad that we cannot all sit down to such a dish as this?

Electricity is an efficient salvager. Electric cranes equipped with electromagnets handle great quantities of metal junk at the nation's 3,000 scrap yards. The larger sections of scrap are chewed up in enormous electric shears or smashed with a tremendous electric "skull-cracker." HANDSOME WINTER COATS; FAIRY-LIKE PARTY FROCKS

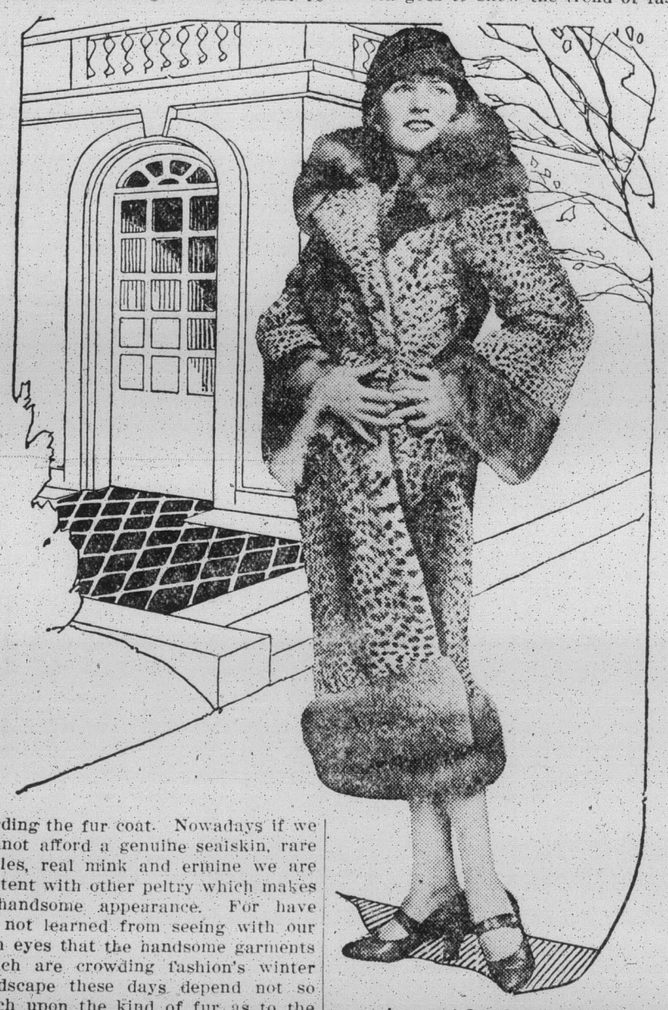
ONCE upon a time a fur coat was an exception, now it is the rule. The fates have been kind to the present-day woman of fashion, in that no longer are the moderate circumstanced denied the joy of owning a luxurious-looking fur wrap. Indeed the fur coat has become quite a democratic affair now that it is available at prices within the reach of all.

The feminine mind itself has also undergone a change in sentiment regarding the fur coat. Nowadays if we cannot afford a genuine sealskin, rare sables, real mink and ermine we are content with other peltry which makes a handsome appearance. For have we not learned from seeing with our own eyes that the handsome garments which are crowding fashion's winter landscape these days depend not so much upon the kind of fur as to the genius of the stylists who create them?



Leopard-Cat Sports Model.

That this is an age of novelty when it comes to fur coats is evidenced throughout the season's superb collection of both long and short models. Unique effects are largely due to using contrasting furs in fascinating combinations. The leopard-cat sports model here shown trimmed as it is with kit fox is an object lesson as to the spectacular aspect of the modern fur coat. The short sports coat is also in fashion and is designed in fascinating fur combinations. In fact there is increasing demand for the inexpensive short sports fur models.

Among exclusive types which are of appeal to women of wealth, there is considerable interest manifested in exquisitely modeled coats of seal, which are detailed with godet sections which answer the call for the flare.

A Pretty Party Dress.

These are often trimmed with gray peltry, such as squirrel and krimmer. The favor is also shown for gray in that platinum and silver-colored caracul are lavishly bordered and collared with fox to match.

Among the better fur coats one notes distinguished modes of mink which display every theme of the mode in the fashioning of collar and like details.

Yes, Peter Pan, we believe in fairies, at least we believe in pretty maidens who look just like fairies in their lovely fluffy-ruffles party dresses such as this picture shows. What an understanding way has Madam Fashion of figuring out what every little miss of today likes best in the way of party and dance frocks. In the matter of ribbons and laces and shimmering silks the mode is filling to hearts' content the longings of childhood fancy.

To be convinced that the modern party frock is fairy-like indeed observe the dainty creation which is here pictured. Note, please, that the skirt is bouffant and the waistline defined, which goes to show the trend of fashion. See the wee rosebuds which hold in position the lace-edged, ribbon-trimmed bertha which forms a sleeve-like effect over the shoulders, count the tucks and the rows and rows of lace and ribbon which beautify the full skirt, and then do we begin to appreciate how very lavish is the mode when it comes to designing festive frocks for little tots.

Most party dresses for little folks this season are either of georgette or taffeta, and as said before, they abound in decorative touches.

A frock featuring the popular styling of full skirt with indicated waistline shows taffeta and georgette in combination as follows: the waist is of pink taffeta with a yoke of georgette, a dainty embroidered wreath outlining its joining. Tiers of georgette form the bouffant skirt, narrow silver ribbon making a sash and bow at the waistline.

Speaking of silver ribbon, it is as much in use on children's dresses as on those of grown-ups. For older girls a judicious showing of metal lace is approved, for the vogue of metallic effects prevails throughout costuming for the youth of the land as well as for its elders.

Frocks of quite sophisticated mien for girls in their 'teens are created of supple velvet. In one such, velvet of twilight blue is exquisitely contrasted with silvery lace.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

FIRST SCHOOL DAY

Parent Natalie was a born cook. She said so herself. She even boasted of it to Mother Fenwick as she urged her to eat her breakfast.

"But I Don't Like It."

But Mother Fenwick was not so much interested in the breakfast as in the fact that Parent Natalie called herself a born cook.

"How were you a born cook?" she asked. "You didn't begin to cook the minute you were born, did you? Did you wear that apron right away? How could you have when you were just a little baby and not able to walk? You wore long clothes, didn't you? It seems to me I almost remember you."

"Remember me! Nonsense child, children don't remember their parents when they were little. And get on with your breakfast now. This oatmeal is good for you."

"But I don't like it," Mother Fenwick protested.

"Never mind whether you like it or not, it's good for you and you must eat it."

Slowly, little Mother Fenwick began eating again.

"I think Old Man Slow Poke is around this morning," Parent Natalie commented.

"Daddy Fenwick!" she called. "Aren't you dressed yet?"

Daddy Fenwick came in the door. He sat down and began his breakfast.

"Parent Natalie," said Mother Fenwick, "I hate this dress. Do I have to wear it? Brown isn't becoming to me."

"My dear child," Parent Natalie answered, "you should be very thankful that you've got a good, kind aunt to send you that dress. Really, I've never seen a dress I thought looked so well on you. It's far better than we could afford to buy. When your Aunt Chloe sent it she wrote that her little Chloe hadn't worn it out by any manner of means, but that she didn't believe in sending clothes after they were all worn out. Some people wouldn't be so kind at that."

"I guess Cousin Chloe didn't like it and wouldn't wear it. She said she never had to do what she didn't want."

"Eat your oatmeal. You've got enough sugar on it now. Yes, I think it's very becoming. I don't know when you've had so pretty a dress."

"Daddy Fenwick!" exclaimed Parent Robert. "What—where are your socks?"

"I couldn't find them," Daddy Fenwick answered. Parent Sally went off looking for the socks.

At last breakfast was finished. They only had seven minutes in which to get to school. It took several of them to find Daddy Fenwick's cap, but at last they were off, walking down the street, trying to avoid the cracks in the sidewalk as they went along.

All the other daddies and mothers were in school. They had been given their grades, but as Mother Fenwick and Daddy Fenwick were about the same age they were in the same class.

It was so hard studying, and they really did feel ashamed when they couldn't answer questions. At one time Daddy Fenwick was told he would have to stay after school if he didn't stop whittling away at the end of his desk and Mother Fenwick fidgeted so that she had to sit on the teacher's platform and look down at the others and be looked at through one whole lesson.

But at last came recess. Then the daddies drew up teams for different games and the mothers went around with their arms around each other whispering secrets, or skipped ropes or played still-pond-no-more-moving.

A Lot of Money.

When they got back into their classes again they all felt they were given far too much work to do, for they had so many other plans of what they would do when school was out, particularly the daddies.

The parents all felt that the first day of school had been somewhat of a strain on the little daddies and mothers. For hardly any of them could eat any dinner.

Country Boys Rough

Nate, a small, delicate boy, and his mother were visiting friends in the country where boys of Nate's age were robust and rather rough in manners.

The boys were all out at play when presently Nate went quietly into the house, where his mother was.

She saw that he was troubled and asked what was wrong.

Nate began to cry and said: "Those boys play harder'n I fight."

Nice Things for Christmas Gifts

Handy Things to Own

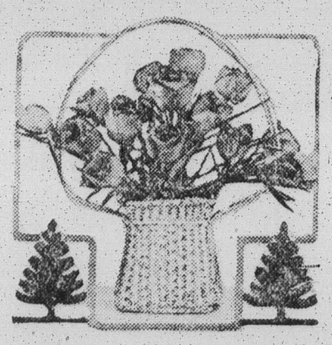
A small, rubber-lined pocket for the traveler and a pretty wall case are shown above, and they are handy things for anyone to own. Cretonne is used for the pocket and ribbon cloth for its lining. It is made in the form of an envelope and will carry washrag, comb and toothbrush in its larger compartment. A smaller pocket for a powder puff or soap is stitched under the flap and snap fasteners manage the closings.

A foundation for the triangular wall case is made of cardboard and covered with silk, cretonne or crepe paper. A hole punched in the back serves to hang it on a tack in the wall, near a dressing case or table. These gifts are suited to both men and women.

Costume Flowers

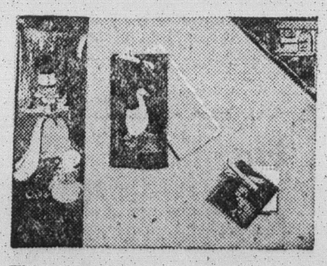
When in doubt this year, choose costume flowers as a gift to women friends. They are very fashionable made of ribbons, bits of silk, or millinery flowers and ribbons. Shirred and shaded metallic ribbon is used for the poppies pictured, and silk veiled with tinsel gauze for the petals that make the rose and the buds that trail from stems of silver cord.

Lifelike Roses



Lovers of the beautiful will rejoice in roses of fine crepe paper (made with marvelous fidelity to nature) in a gray basket, woven of paper rope. They are fashioned in any of the natural rose colors—usually three shades are used and sometimes veinings are done with watercolors. As a gift from one woman to another they can hardly be excelled.

For Children's Desk



Thin, black oilcloth and a colored desk blotter will start the gift maker on the way to a successful desk set for little folks. After an oblong piece of beaverboard has been covered with the blotter a strip of oilcloth is tacked over one end of it and a triangular piece over an opposite corner. Two pieces of oilcloth make blotter and pen wiper covers. Scenes from Mother Goose are painted on the oilcloth.

Whenever bankers desire to promote actively agricultural improvement in their communities, the state agricultural colleges stand ready to show them the way and to give expert assistance. The purpose of this article is to illustrate the way in which the colleges are getting in contact with the banks, and the kind of assistance they render.

D. H. Otis

As soon as the college has a list of the banks in the state desiring to adopt plans to aid agriculture as indicated by project blanks sent out to all the banks in the state, by the State Bankers Association Agricultural Committee, it gives practical suggestions to each banker on the list as to what he can do to stimulate, organize, and conduct the work in the particular project he has selected. Then either a department specialist from the college or the county agent gets in personal touch with the banker to assist him in an advisory capacity.

Samples of the project outlines are given below to illustrate the details of the procedure the college takes in accomplishing its plan.

College Provides Expert Advisers

In counties with no county agent a list of the banks desiring to carry on a project is sent to a specialist at the state college, according to the project listed. For instance, the banks desiring to carry on the farm accounts project are assigned to the farm management specialist, those desiring to carry on the legume project to the agronomy specialist, those interested in boys' and girls' club work to the junior extension specialist, and so forth.

In counties that do have a county agent a list of the banks and the projects in which each is interested is sent to him with a request that he get in touch with the bankers and help them in regard to the various projects.

The next step by the college is to write to each banker on the list sending him project outlines and informing him that the county agent or a specialist from the college will get in touch with him. If there is no agent in the county this letter reads as follows:

Union State Bank,
Bankville.

Gentlemen—You will find enclosed a brief outline of the farm accounts project in which you have indicated your interest to your State Agricultural Committee and to the Agricultural Commission of the American Bankers Association.

I am sure that the specialist from the agricultural college will be pleased to assist you in carrying out the suggestions indicated. We have asked him to get in touch with you.

Director, Agricultural Extension.

The letter to bankers in counties that do have a county agent informs them that he will get in touch with them.

Suggests Things the Banker Can Do

The project outlines sent to each banker give specific suggestions as to the things he can do to organize the work in his project, and the part can take in carrying out the work. more simple and concrete these suggestions are the more valuable they are to the banker. Following are samples of such project outlines:

Farm Accounts Project

1. Banker can select group of farmers who can and should undertake the work of farm accounts.
2. Arrange with county agent or specialist from agricultural college for first meeting of the group and select an account book.
3. Assist individuals at their request with information relative to entering accounts and other data properly.
4. Act as or select leader for the group.
5. Assist in checking inventories as a means of securing individual financial statement at close of the year.

Boys' and Girls' Club Work

1. The banker can arrange with the county agent or the specialist of the agricultural college for organizing a club.
2. Plan to present various types of club work at the next meeting and perfect the organization of a local club.
3. Banker may act as local leader of the club.
4. Cooperate with county agent or specialist in annual "Achievement Day."
5. Banker may offer prizes for club work or otherwise assist in financing same.

Legume Project

1. The banker can get information from county agent or specialist from the agricultural college on the value of alfalfa, soy bean, or sweet clover crops to farmers of the community.
2. Arrange for meeting of interested farmers with county agent or specialist.
3. At this meeting county agents, specialists, or others will discuss:
   (a) Value of crop.
   (b) Seed supply and varieties.
   (c) Methods of handling the crop.
   (d) Use and disposition of crop.
4. Plan with county agent or specialist meetings and demonstrations on plots or fields.
5. Secure exhibits for community or county fair.

Cow Testing Associations

1. The banker can arrange with county agent or specialist from agricultural college for meeting of interested group of farmers in the community for the purpose of organizing a cow testing association.
2. Banker may act as leader, and with county agent or specialist plan to visit prospective farmers who may join the association.
3. Organize for work and assist in securing testing equipment and other materials whenever necessary.
4. Call meetings periodically to discuss association business and hold picnics or tours.
5. Banker with county agent or specialist may arrange for C. T. A. booth at community or county fair giving testing demonstrations and explaining work of association.

This constitutes the preliminary work by the college which paves the way for constructive work by the bankers in banker-farmer projects.

VISITED THE CISSELLS IN LANCASTER

During their holiday trip the Turners motored to the Mojave desert, visiting Mojave and the Crusader oil well, spending the night with Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Cissell, formerly of Ocean Beach. Mr. Cissell is a prosperous alfalfa grower of Lancaster, and has acquired five stalwart sons, three of whom were born in Ocean Beach. The climate in the desert is lovely at this season, Mojave having an elevation of 3000 feet. The trip home was made in the night, leaving Mojave at 5 p. m. and arriving in Mission Beach at 1:15 a. m.

SPENT THANKSGIVING WEEK AMONGST SNOW

Mr. and Mrs. Harry K. Turner and family spent Thanksgiving week in the mountain home of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Wilson at Idyllwild, which is located fifty miles east of Riverside in the heart of the San Jacintos. Idyllwild, 5300 feet above sea level, has aptly been called the "Yosemite of the south." It lies near the center of a vast U. S. forest reserve park, where majestic pine, oak and cedar-clad mountains encircle the wooded valley, where banks of fern and wild roses in season border the clear, laughing waters of the cold mountain streams. The time was spent in hikes to various points of interest, and the children had the time of their lives horseback riding, snowballing and tobogganing in the snow, and a splendid old-fashioned turkey dinner was enjoyed at the Idyllwild inn on Thanksgiving day.

Mission Beach School Notes

Written for "The Beach News" By Pupils Under Direction of Miss Sarellen Morgan

We had a spelling match in the upper grades on Monday. The boys were beaten by the girls by three words. Then we had a spell-down.

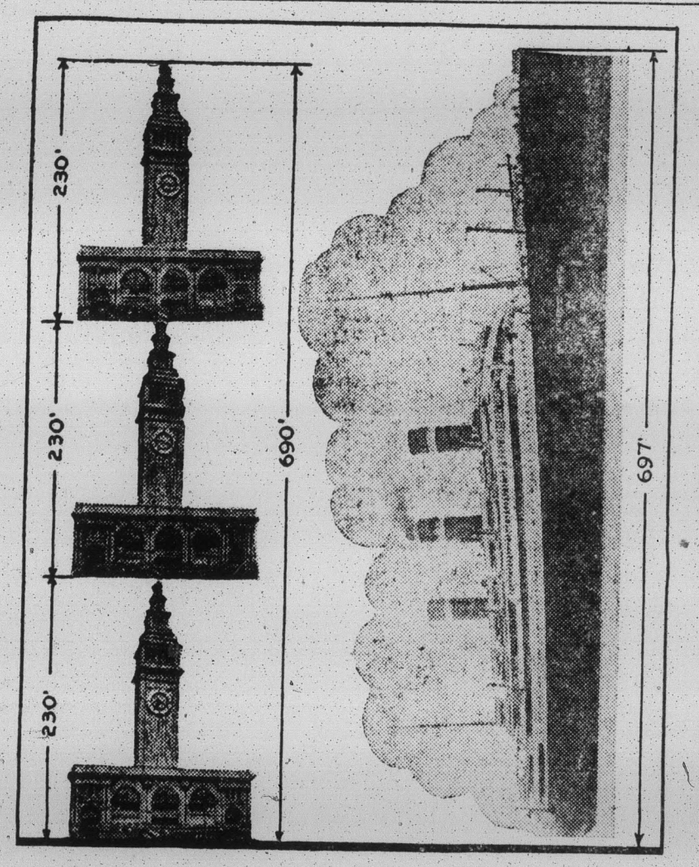
Miss Weller, the principal, was ill at home on Tuesday. Miss Moser took her place.

A new boy entered the fifth grade Monday. His name is Eugene Beaman. He comes from Venice.

Vera Reama brought some beautiful red poinsettias to school. They made the room cheerful and bright.

The Christmas holidays will begin Dec. 18. School is to be closed until Jan. 4, 1926.

Mammoth Size of World Cruise Steamer Illustrated



Comparative picture of the San Francisco Ferry Building and globe-circling liner Belgenland.

The gigantic size of the Red Star liner Belgenland, which will soon start on her second globe circling voyage can be more clearly visualized when compared with the Ferry building at San Francisco. This huge steamer, which is not only the largest to ever put into the harbors of Los Angeles and San Francisco, but the biggest to make a world cruise, is more than three times as long as the Ferry building is high.

Standing the Belgenland on end alongside of three replicas of the Ferry building on top of each other, the bow of the steamer would still tower seven feet above them. The liner is 697 feet long and 78 feet broad. She is 27,300 tons register and is fitted up as luxuriously as the best class hotels. She has two large and well equipped gymnasiums, an indoor swimming pool, with Turkish bath attached, and two outdoor pools, the largest on any ship.

A deck tennis court, golf course, three veranda cafes, a Japanese tea garden, beautifully furnished and decorated public rooms and commodious staterooms make the Belgenland ideally fitted for a world cruise.

On a voyage around the world the matter of providing a varied and palatable menu is one of the most important tasks. When it is considered that more than 400 people make their home aboard the steamer for a period of 132 days, the question of food is a big one. The large refrigerator compartments aboard the vessel provide ample space for the carrying of the necessary foodstuff.

Included in the food carried by the Belgenland are: Sixty tons of meat, 600 barrels of flour, 16,000 pounds of butter, 3 tons of cheese, 9 tons of poultry, 60 tons of potatoes, 3 tons of salt, 4 tons of coffee, 2 tons of tea, 5 tons of sugar and 2 tons of ice cream. Fresh fish is taken on at every port touched. Practically every kind of domestic and foreign delicacy can be found in the storerooms of the liner.

Before the steamer leaves Los Angeles on December 11 she will take on more than 1,000 boxes of citrus fruits and a large supply of other products indigenous to Southern California. At San Francisco she will take aboard more than 70 tons of fresh vegetables and dried fruit.

Leaving San Francisco on December 14, the big steamer will go to the Hawaiian Islands and then proceed westward on her globe circling course, visiting 60 cities and fourteen different countries. The steamer is scheduled to return to New York on April 6.
